Fashion Tips for getting noticed

A woman's figure with all its glorious curves is what naturally attracts men. When you find yourself newly single or having been single for some time and getting back in the dating game, it can be overwhelming. How you look is the first thing that men notice. Therefore ladies, it is especially important to pay attention to your clothing choices and what best flatters your shape. The best way to get the opposite sex to notice you and to make a splash with the New Year is to revitalize your wardrobe. The compliments will be plentiful!

With a new year on the horizon, it's a perfect time to focus on a new you. Many women struggle with the proper fit for their body type and end up settling for garments that don't flatter their shape. Here are a couple of first class tips that can help you organize how you present yourself in order to capture that much desired attention from men and put your best self forward. Your first mission is to get rid of anything unflattering from your wardrobe! Throw out the clothes that make you look twice your original size and keep what actually fits. A well-fitting garment is flattering in all the right places and should highlight your assets. Next, work out what your best assets are. Is it your long, elegant neck, your décolleté, your slim waist or your sexy legs? Invest in some pieces that showcase your best feminine assets. Men prefer anything that looks feminine and sexy on a woman regardless of age. So remember to always ensure your look is feminine.

The next tip for the new you, is to stick to your dresses. A pencil skirt or well-fitted pair of jeans that show off your legs are also a nice option but nothing highlights a woman's shape better, than a beautifully flattering dress. Men notice and prefer dresses. It makes the ultimate womanly, elegant statement. Be sure to keep or buy dresses that are monochromatic and elegant and all about the cut, as it draws more attention to your face and figure. Some bright prints and colours draw attention away from your physical beauty. Also ensure that your dresses fit you. They should skim the body without clinging and again choose a cut that highlights your best assets. Be sure they are not too short as your elegance is a massive attraction. If you wear more skirts than dresses, make sure they are well-fitted and fall just at the right length to flatter your legs.

Wear a subtly sexy multi layered sheer blouse with your pencil skirt to showcase your feminine curves.

Your blouses should be in one of the best colours to draw attention to your face and again skim your body without being too tight.

Last but not least, always wear heels.

They are the ultimate feminine, sexy, finishing touch to any outfit.

Wearing heels with a pair of skinny jeans or a dress lengthens your legs and creates an attractive flow to your silhouette. Wearing heels is a must; never underestimate what a pair of heels can do for you! So ladies what are you waiting for? Get noticed!
